Advice service granted stay of execution after council U-turn

PROTEST: Supporters of Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice demonstrate outside the Civic Centre before Tuesday's meeting

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN 11th-hour proposal from staff at Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice has resulted in a dramatic council U-turn that will see the threatened service granted a temporary reprieve.

Councillors agreed at Tuesday's meeting of the policy and resources committee to hand over £30,000 to HWRA to fund a three-month contract extension while the authority enters a second tendering process for the service.

The meeting was rescheduled twice in the wake of the council's defeat in the High Court two weeks ago when the judge ordered the authority to reconsider its decision to slash HWRA's budget by 82 per cent because it had not given "due regard" to the impact of the cut-back on the most vulnerable and needy members of society.

The last-minute amendment to the evening's agenda – the result of protracted negotiations between HWRA and council chief executive Malcolm Morley – was only handed to members minutes before the meeting began, and replaced recommendations to bring welfare rights and advice services in-house on a budget of £120,000.

But Labour group leader Mark Wilkinson said his party would not be supporting the proposals on the grounds they still represented an "astronomical cut to a vital service", although he welcomed the fact council officers had agreed to negotiate with HWRA.

Liberal Democrat leader Chris Millington told the meeting: "This has been a sorry state of affairs, but if there is a possibility that HWRA will survive that is to be welcomed."

There were jeers from the packed public gallery when Conservative council leader

Advice team granted stay of execution

Andrew Johnson claimed the administration had always been working with the best interests of Harlow residents in mind.

"We have been fighting to get best value for council taxpayers and the best advice services possible for the amount this council can afford," he said.

"The administration has had very little time to look at these proposals and to get a new set of recommendations out so quickly shows how much we care for our residents' needs."

However, the extension could prove to be nothing more than a stay of execution for the vital service as the council claimed it had a legal obligation to put the contract out to tender and could not guarantee that HWRA's bid – detailed in a letter sent to the authority by service head Sue Jones – would be successful.

Speaking to the Star after the meeting, Ms Jones said: "It really comes down to whether or not the council wants more value for their money as we are able to promise them substantial additional funding for the service if they accept our bid.

"Although redundancies would still be inevitable because of the size of the budget cut, at least something of the service would be retained and the people of Harlow would still be able to get the specialist help and advice they need – albeit on a reduced scale."

She said that retaining an independently-run service would allow people to have confidence that there would be no conflict of interest when it came to helping them with problems involving the council.

"If the service is taken in-house it could well compromise the level of advice and support available," she said.

As a result of the decision, Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice is set to reopen to the public on April 1.

Killer struck fatal blow during row over a taxi

A MAN who struck a fatal blow during a row over a taxi in Harlow town centre has been found guilty of manslaughter.

The punch thrown by Daniel Clarke following an altercation outside the Quattroz nightclub left 34-year-old Mark White with a ruptured brain artery.

Clarke (22), of Church Leys, Harlow, had pleaded not guilty to the charge. But at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday the jury of seven men and five women found him guilty.

As the verdict was announced, cries of "yes" rang out from family of the dead man.

Judge Christopher Ball warned Clarke he would be jailed when he returns to court to be sentenced.

"We all know you didn't intend to kill; it was unintended circumstances from a punch up that's all too familiar," said the judge. "This is why courts are so concerned about violence in public and send people to prison."

However he added the sentence was likely to be at the bottom end of the range as there was no intent to cause serious harm.

Refusing an application for bail and remanding Clarke in custody until the date of sentence, the judge added: "I am concerned particularly given the proximity of the defendant with others who have an interest in this case.

"Bail brings with it an opportunity for unfortunate events for everyone."

During the week-long trial the court was told that on March 21 last year Mr White had been out drinking with friends.

They had arranged to go home in a taxi but when they got into the vehicle they were subjected to obscene gestures from Clarke's group after they thought the others had jumped the queue.

Mr White and his friends then got out of the cab. Two of them began to chase members of the other group while Mr White stood by the taxi.

The court heard that Clarke then struck Mr White with a hard punch which felled him. He subsequently died from the injury he sustained.

Speaking after the hearing, Detective Inspector Martin Passmore said: "This is a tragic case where humorous banter over a taxi booking turned violent and resulted in Mr White's death.

"Our thoughts are with his loved ones and I can only hope that this verdict will in some way help them to start to come to terms with their loss."

Clarke is due to return to court next month to be sentenced.

Teresa is our 'mum in a million'

BREAST cancer patient Teresa Ottosen has been crowned Harlow's 'Mum in a Million' after her daughters entered her into a competition run by the Harvey Centre in conjunction with the Star.

Mrs Ottosen (53), of Bushey Croft, beat scores of other nominees to win the Mother's Day prize.

Her name was put forward by daughters Rachel Ottosen-Gowlett and Claire Ottosen because they said she had dealt with the diagnosis of the disease "with dignity, high spirits, motivation and a great determination".

Rachel (27) and Claire (32) nominated their mum without telling each other. Their compelling stories also told how Teresa showed huge enthusiasm for life in the face of adversity.

Mrs Ottosen walked away with the coveted title and a host of prizes including a £250 Harvey Centre gift card, chocolates, flowers and jewellery donated by shops in the centre.

"I was shocked and speechless because I didn't know anything about the competition at all," she said this week, adding: "I have already been into the Harvey Centre to see what I can spend the money on."

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "We were inspired by her quiet determination, courage and sense of humour."

Time to dig out the Green Jackets

CALLING all Harlow Green Jackets! The marching band is having a reunion and all past members are invited.

Set up in the 1970s, the Supreme Show Band, as it was known initially, attracted children and families to come together and put on fun displays of their skills.

It went from strength to strength and saw members take to the road to put on shows throughout the country and even abroad.

Members also strutted their stuff at carnivals, won lots of competitions and even played at Wembley.

It was said they owed their success to the dedicated training regime which saw them practice three times a week at Bush Fair.

So far, 40 people have got in touch with organiser Kim Wilde to note their interest in the reunion, including two who now live in Australia.

A date and a venue for the party have yet to be set, but those interested should call Kim on 0772 555 3910.

Pub offering a history lesson

By LOUISE SASSOON

IT is now a place where people can relax and chat with friends over a drink but many regulars of the William Aylmer pub may not realise their favourite watering hole has an interesting history.

Aylmer House, in Kitson Way, was built as part of the new town development and was once a furniture store offering the latest designs in the 1950s.

After a few years of trading, it was taken over by a car company and used as a showroom, complete with a glass frontage which gave shoppers the chance to gaze longingly at the vehicles of the time as they went about their business.

The retail block stood almost alone in the area, which has since been transformed into a bustling office and leisure space, and it served as a successful showroom until it was snapped up to be used as a Jobcentre for the town's hundreds of unemployed workers before eventually being taken over by pub chain JD Wetherspoon in 2002.

The building's new owner did not want to create a faceless gastro pub and enlisted the help of local history officer David Devine from The Museum of Harlow to share details about the building's history.

It was then Wetherspoon's learned of the Aylmer family of Moor Hall, who lived in Harlow in 1383.

LANDMARK: Aylmer House in 1960

William, an abbot, was the first recorded member of the family and it is his name which was given to the office block when it was erected.

The family house was once one of Harlow's leading residences but sadly nothing now remains of the property.

However, drinkers can learn all about the family, the building and the new town's history the next time they are in the pub, thanks to one of the many written snippets of information displayed on the walls.

● DO you remember Aylmer House at some point in its history? Maybe you worked at the car showroom or bought your first vehicle from there. PENSIONERS IN TERROR

Youngsters are using the entrance to pensioners' flats in Barn Mead as a public lavatory. They meet in the communal hallway, urinate and defecate over the floor and shout abuse, say frightened pensioners. The children are also interfering with the pensioners' heating controls and hammer on the front doors.

C&A TO OPEN TOWN STORE?

Rumours C&A is to open a store in a planned new development in Harlow town centre could not be confirmed or denied by the company this week. But it is certain West London company Sunley Holding KTD has submitted a planning application to Harlow Council to build a five-storey development in the town centre for retail and office use. It is believed C&A and Boots will occupy the ground and first floors. The remaining three floors have been earmarked for offices and storage.

HEALTH SERVICE AXED AGAIN

The local health service has again come under the axe as West Essex Health Authority sets about saving more than £650,000. As well as merging two wards at Herts and Essex Hospital, Bishop's Stortford, the authority wants to reduce budgets, reduce laundry costs and cut up to 12 posts.

Jail threat to pervert who stored child porn images on computer

A PERVERT who stored hundreds of indecent images of children on his computer has been warned he could face jail. Nearly 2,500 pictures were found on Martin Fuller's computer after a police raid, Chelmsford Crown Court was told.

Fuller (22), of Ram Gorse, Harlow, pleaded guilty to four charges of making and possessing pornographic images of children.

Judge Peter Fenn told him on Monday: "The court views offences such as those to which you have pleaded guilty very seriously. All sentencing options, including a custodial sentence, remain open."

He added that the court wanted Fuller to co-operate in the preparation of pre-sentence reports which will be taken into consideration before sentencing.

But Fuller was warned the court would not view it favorably if he spurned that chance.

The court heard the photographs showed no sexual activity and were rated as level one images, the lowest category on a system used by police to determine the severity of the pictures.

Fuller was released on unconditional bail to return to court in May for sentencing.

Police arrest five HGV stowaways

A GROUP of suspected illegal immigrants were being held in police custody yesterday (Wednesday).

Police stopped a lorry at the Shell petrol filling station on the A414 at Harlow on Tuesday afternoon after a driver reported seeing people in the back of the vehicle as it travelled along the M11.

The Polish driver was arrested on suspicion of bringing the Vietnamese nationals into the country but he was later released without charge.

Two men, two women and a boy of 13 were also arrested.

MP expenses 'need reform' says Rammell

HARLOW MP Bill Rammell has claimed more than £100,000 in expenses since 2001 to help pay the mortgage on a one-bedroom apartment close to Westminster.

But this week Mr Rammell, who is currently Minister of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, said he is supporting calls for an overhaul of the system of allowances paid to Members of Parliament.

The MP confirmed he also used the Additional Costs Allowance to pay for council tax, energy bills,

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

maintenance and furniture for the flat where he stays following late-night meetings and debates in the House of Commons

But although Mr Rammell was fully entitled to claim the money, he told the Star this week he had recently stopped doing so because he had become convinced the expenses system was in need of a complete overhaul.

"I, like MPs of all parties, have claimed the Additional Costs Allowance, as has been published and reported locally," said Mr Rammell

"There is a case for this allowance but I have come to the view that we need root-and-branch reform," he said.

"The public has lost confidence in the system and, therefore, although I am entitled to the allowance, have been in the bottom 25 per cent of claimants and have always claimed in line with the rules, I have recently stopped claiming the allowance completely."

Prime Minister Gordon Brown announced last week that the Government would be investigating MPs' expenses following allegations in national newspapers that Harrow MP Tony McNulty was using the Additional Costs Allowance to make payments on his parents' home.

Selfish parkers to blame for rotting rubbish piles

STINKING and unsightly bags of rubbish have been left to pile up outside homes because dust-carts cannot get access to pick them up.

Illegally parked cars are preventing collection vehicles getting to certain areas of The Dashes, Harlow, meaning bags remain until vehicles are moved.

The problem has resulted in some bags being left outside homes for a week, creating an unpleasant smell. In some cases they have split, spewing their contents onto footpaths and roads.

A spokesman for Harlow Council, which contracts an outside agency to collect the town's household waste, said it is aware of the problem.

"Waste collection vehicles are having problems accessing some estates where people are double-parking or parking half on pavements, restricting access to vehicles," he said.

"It could also cause problems for fire engines and ambulances."

"We apologise to residents for the inconvenience this is causing. Where refuse and recycling crews are unable to make collections, they will return as a matter of course at a later time to attempt collection."

"However, if access is still blocked collections are postponed until a later date."

The council's Scrutiny Committee is understood to be considering a range of measures to tackle problems caused by parked cars in the town's estates.

Pathetic response to cuts in funding

SIR, Does Robert Halfon take us for downright idiots? It seems so.

In trying to justify the decision of Conservative councillors to slash funding for Harlow's Advice Centre he completely misleads and distorts the facts.

The Labour/Liberal Democrat administration did not leave the coffers bare. As the independent district auditor made clear, the council's budget position was sustainable.

Harlow Council has received a proper Government grant this year. The Government's support for councils increased by 39 per cent above inflation in the first decade in office and now by an extra £8.9bn through this current three-year settlement.

In contrast, under the Tories, central government support to local authorities fell by seven per cent in the four years up to 1997.

As for national pooling of rent surpluses, this was a practice started by the last Tory government and it is housing rent money. As the Housing Revenue Account is ring-fenced, even if pooling didn't happen not one penny of this money could be spent on General Fund activities such as the advice centre. It would be – and is – for the maintenance and repair of Harlow Council properties.

National pooling has existed since 1989 and, therefore, every council administration has faced this since then. Not one has cut frontline services in the same way as Harlow's Tory council.

The reason Harlow Tories have cut the advice centre is they do not support it. Such dishonesty from Mr Halfon really is a pathetic response.

Councillor didn't like what I had to say

SIR, I am the person who left the council chamber during last week's meeting regarding parking charges (Star, March 19).

I did not leave of my own will as I was about to be removed as councillor Eddie Johnson had sent one of his minions to get security due to the fact he didn't like what I had to say.

I had already informed him of my views in a letter delivered by hand to the Civic Centre and which had conveniently disappeared.

I wished to speak about residents' concerns as to where we are going to park as the people who are our so-called representatives seem to have conveniently put us to the back of their minds.

So due to the fact they would not let me speak my piece, I felt the only course of action was to shout from the rooftops to let them know the reasons were – myself, the majority of residents, shopkeepers, health centre workers, shoppers and all the other people old and young who this scheme is going to have a serious effect on – are opposing this additional tax being imposed on us. That is all it is – an additional source of revenue for our so-called caring council to squander.

These charges will increase year by year as they do in the other areas of the town with pay and display and permit parking.

The problem with the people running this town is they do not care about the community or the people in it. Until they do care, this town and so many like it will continue to deteriorate.

Ian Harper
Orchard Croft, Harlow

FLASHBACK: Last week's Star front page report

SIR, The decision by Harlow's Conservative councillors to impose car parking charges at Bush Fair, The Stow and Old Harlow is likely to have disastrous consequences for many local businesses, especially in the midst of a recession.

Despite petitions signed by over 3,800 residents, and the pleas of local shopkeepers, Conservative councillors failed to listen and have pressed ahead with these plans.

Parking passes for people working in these centres will be available at £50 a year, but by the council's own admission there won't be enough to go round. Business owners and managers will be placed in the unenviable position of having to choose which of their staff get a pass and which get an effective £1,500 pay cut as they are forced to pay £6 a day to go to work.

And NHS employees such as practice nurses, dental assistants and health visitors won't qualify for staff passes at all, leading to fears that qualified and experienced health workers will simply take their skills elsewhere.

The Conservatives' parking charges will deal a major blow to the vitality of our local shopping centres. So much for the promise they made Harlow residents at the election last year to support local businesses!

Councillor Lorna Spenceley
Spring Hills, Harlow

SIR, 'Don't bother'. That's the message Harlow Council is sending out to local businesses and disgruntled members of the public.

'Don't bother giving us your opinion because quite frankly we couldn't care less about your concerns and worries. We will push ahead regardless.'

No amount of letters to the local papers, no amount of front page headlines that should embarrass the council into some sort of action matter.

More local businesses will go under and, in the UK's most unprecedented financial turmoil, Harlow Council will screw us all out of every last hard-earned penny we have.

What were those famous words? Will the last person leaving Harlow turn off the lights.

High Court trio deserve praise

SIR, I do not know, nor do I expect to meet, Geraldine Meany, Patricia Glynn or Greig Sanders but I would like to thank them publicly for their successful action against Harlow Council at the High Court. Many in such a position would not have the financial ability to challenge our council and I suggest councillors did not anticipate such a challenge.

It may be councillors were ill-advised by their own senior managers.

These three public-spirited people well deserve praise for their action against those who are paid to act in the public interest yet fail the taxpayer too often.

Council tax rise is unacceptable

SIR, I have just received this year's council tax bill and very disappointing reading it was.

Considering inflation is virtually nil, I see that Harlow Council is increasing its share by an unacceptable 3.9 per cent and, unbelievably, Essex Police is seeking a 4.9 per cent increase.

Considering crime in nearly all areas of Harlow is high or very high going by the Essex Police Local Crime Map, it seems money well spent.

I have voted Tory all my voting life but now, as far as local elections are concerned, it will be second thoughts.

R.D. Lucia
Coppice Hatch, Harlow

EU rule threat to fire service

SIR, It is worrying to learn that new European Union regulations could lead to cuts in Essex's fire services and force up council tax bills.

The European Parliament has voted to impose new red tape through the EU Working Time Directive. If the new EU rules go ahead, workers' rights to opt-out from the working time rules will be abolished.

Employers would have to ensure workers work no more than 48 hours a week. 'On-call' time in the workplace, even when inactive, would be counted as working time. This will have a devastating impact on retained firefighters who double up their fire work with other jobs.

Many have pagers and are on call in the event of emergencies. This will cut the number of retained firefighters on active duty, especially in rural communities. There will be reduced local fire cover, response times will increase as firefighters have to come from further away and more full-time firefighters will be needed, pushing up the fire levy on council tax bills.

The Local Government Association and Chief Fire Officers' Association have attacked the plans.

Currently in Essex there are 258 retained firefighter posts of which 238 are filled, reflecting recruiting difficulties. Such shortages would worsen if Labour's Euro MPs get their way.

Retained firefighters do a superb service to our community, helping tackle fires, floods and road accidents. I am very concerned at the effect of these new rules which would cut back workers' rights to work when they choose.

This red tape would cut local fire services, put lives at risk and force up council tax across Harlow and surrounding villages. It is vital the Government stands firm on this crucial issue.

Labour MEPs need to be sent a message in the European elections that their failure to protect local fire services is not acceptable. Conservatives will stand up for Britain and our firefighters in the face of this new threat.

Robert Halfon, Conservative prospective Parliamentary candidate
Latton Bush Centre, Harlow

Our heating bill will double

SIR, I live in sheltered housing and this year the cost to us for heating and hot water was £7.20.

Last week I received a letter to say that from April the cost is to be £14.75.

I wondered if the council is allowed to impose such a vast increase or are they taking advantage of a few vulnerable old people?

Anger over council's parking charges plan

The council should not be allowed to get away with introducing these fees. It will mean shops closing as people choose to shop at Tesco or Sainsbury instead

If the council wants to cut costs get rid of some of the councillors. They are a waste of space and costing the taxpayers a lot of money

I feel that a lot of the traders will lose business because of the charges. Also, Water Gardens parking for the disabled I think should be free. That is why I go to Bishop's Stortford and Cambridge. Both their new multi-storey car parks are free for disabled. If these towns can do this why can't we?

What does this say about the Conservatives' view of democracy? We vote them in and then they just do whatever they want after that, even when we voice our objections to their decisions.

It's a shame our council is in such dire circumstances that it needs to charge for parking but hopefully it will free up spaces so us shoppers can park more easily.

College lecturers in payouts claim

TWO former Harlow College lecturers have started a legal challenge for compensation over claims they were unfairly dismissed in a staffing restructure.

About 80 people were either made redundant or chose to leave their posts at the campus in 2007 following the implementation of a new learning and teaching strategy which they claimed would change their salaries and hours of work and saw many having to reapply for their jobs.

On Tuesday a 10-day hearing began at a London employment tribunal to determine whether or not the college acted unfairly.

In a statement issued at the end of the opening day, Barry Lovejoy, head of further education for the University and College Union, said: "UCU has the firm view the college failed to meet statutory obligations in consulting with staff on these changes."

"It was wrong for the college to move staff from lecturer to tutor grades without proper consultation on how this change of role would be implemented. Many people faced inferior time terms of service as a result. We are pursuing a protective award on behalf of members."

History lecturer James Meadow, from Cheshunt and former colleague Paul Hughes, from Redbridge, are taking the action.

Giving evidence on Tuesday, Mr Meadow said he was dealt 'a devastating blow' when he heard he was to lose his job. "I was part of the union team working to ensure we took steps to prevent the job losses," he told the hearing.

Mr Meadows said he was appraised during the dismissal process and given the lowest score. "I was evidently being detrimentally treated because of my trade union activity," he said.

The hearing continues.

Ballet pair ready to follow in the footsteps of the greats

TWO young ballet students have pirouetted their way into one of the country's leading dance schools after wowing examiners during their entrance auditions.

Both Hamish Scott (11), of Bury Road, Old Harlow, and Hannah Mehew (11), from North Weald, have been offered places at the Royal Ballet Junior School, in Richmond Park, where they will have the opportunity to follow in the footsteps of many of the world's greatest dancers.

The youngsters are both members of Harlow Ballet School and joint director Henrietta Branwell said she was thrilled by their success.

"In the 50 years the Harlow Ballet School has been running we have only ever had one of our students get through those auditions, so it is fantastic for both of them to get in."

"It is a vindication of all the hard work and tremendous effort they have put into their training and a very proud moment for all of us at the school."

Marathon man Christian is a Rainbow warrior

CHARITABLE Christian Wheeler will be pounding the pavements of London next month to raise cash for Harlow charity Rainbow Services.

The 29-year-old, of Joceylins, Old Harlow, will be taking part in the Flora London Marathon for the organisation which has helped thousands of disadvantaged people in the town.

Now more than ever before Rainbow Services needs all the money it can get after it had its share of council funding slashed by £32,000 in recent budget cuts.

Christian, whose mother is executive director of the charity, said he had seen at first hand how helpful it had been to local people over the past 20 years.

He is determined to raise as much money as possible and has set up a 'Justgiving' website on behalf of the charity. He has already received pledges of more than £700 from family, friends, work colleagues and his teammates at football club Aveley FC.

"I am asking everyone for donations of as much or as little as they can because every bit helps," he said.

Christian is currently training hard for the marathon which takes place on Sunday, April 26. Sports goods manufacturer Puma has given him a pair of trainers for the big day.

"I want to thank everyone that has donated so far and I hope the local people will also get behind me and donate for such an important cause," he added.

To make a sponsorship pledge to Christian in aid of for Rainbow Services, visit the website at www.justgiving.com/wheelerrunsmarathon.

Courageous Ian's test of endurance

VISUALLY impaired Ian Starr is gearing up to cycle the length of the UK next month to raise money for Guide Dogs for the Blind.

Ian (43) and his brother Andrew (47), of Bishopsfield, Harlow, were both born with a type of eye cancer which resulted in both losing the sight in their left eye at an early age.

Andrew has since lost the sight in his right eye and is now totally blind. "At first Andrew sank into a serious depression until I persuaded him to get a guide dog to help rebuild his confidence," said Ian, pictured right with guide dog Shadow.

"His first dog, Tally, had a transforming influence on him and he returned to his old job in the City. Tally would take him most places and even helped him out of Liverpool Street during the 7/7 bombings. She was unphased by the sound of the explosions, remaining calm and assisting him to safety."

Last year Ian underwent an operation to save what was left of his eyesight. It was such a success that his vision has improved enough for him to be able to ride a bicycle again for the first time in 15 years.

On April 18 he will set off on his challenge to cycle from Land's End to John O'Groats, a distance of almost 1,000 miles. He is hoping to average 60 miles a day and finish on May 1.

"As far as I am aware I am the first person with a visual impairment to attempt this cycle ride solo, relying on a support team to help me with directions.

"I am training hard and hope as many people as possible decide to sponsor me and support Guide Dogs for the Blind. I consider myself to be very lucky and made up my mind to help by raising funds for the charity's vital work."

Ian, who is appealing to local businesses to sponsor him, hopes to raise at least £3,500. "Because the charity relies on voluntary donations to fund its services, every penny raised will help make a life-changing difference to blind and partially sighted people," he said.

To sponsor Ian, visit his website at www.justgiving.com/iansgreatadventure or, to offer corporate sponsorship, call him on 07973 420769. A website following his preparation and progress has been set up at www.iansgreatadventure.co.uk and went live last Thursday.

Race for Life is on target to break through 3,000 barrier

THOUSANDS of women have already signed up to take part in one of Harlow's biggest charity fundraising events.

Entries have been flooding in for the Cancer UK Race for Life since the official launch back in February. So far 2,390 women have registered to take part in the 5km challenge which takes place in just over six weeks.

The figure already exceeds last year's entry of 2,126 participants and there is still time to enter.

But more people are needed to sign up for the Star-supported Race for Life, one of a series of races which together make up the biggest women-only fundraiser. Organisers want to break through the 3,000 barrier and have set a target of raising £193,000.

Event manager Lucy Hynes, pictured above, said: "Race for Life in Harlow has a fantastic atmosphere with local women of all ages, shapes, sizes and fitness abilities coming together to make a positive difference to the lives of people touched by cancer.

"They motivate and inspire each other to complete the 5km, with many simply walking round, chatting and having fun.

"The more people we can get joining in the fun, the better. We have managed to up the space we have at Harlow this year and can take just over 3,000 people."

Since the Race for Life started in 1994, more than four million women across the UK have taken part, raising over £240m to fund Cancer Research UK's pioneering work to help beat cancer.

The event takes place in Harlow Town Park on Sunday, May 10, starting at 11am.

If you want to register to take part, visit the website at www.raceforlife.org or call 0871 641 2282.

WI presents charity cash

HUNDREDS of pounds has been given to the Harlow and District Parkinson's Disease Society by the Church Langley Women's Institute.

The cheque for £800 was presented to the charity's secretary, Corinne Hall, by Church Langley WI president Diana Armstrong.

Patricia Simmons, chairman of Harlow and District PDS, said: "We are obviously very grateful to receive such a generous donation and intend to spend the money on various items of equipment that will be of assistance to our members."

Join the fun at PAH radio

HARLOW Hospital Radio will be flinging open its doors to the public for one day next month.

The station, which has been broadcasting to the patients at Princess Alexandra Hospital for almost 40 years, is run solely by a team of volunteers.

The open day on Saturday, April 4 will run from 11am-3pm.

Shows will be broadcast live during the day and several experienced members will be on hand to talk to anyone interested in joining.

Minicab lights to raise safety

MINICABS fitted with roof lights are among new measures being introduced to drive out unlicensed cabs and ensure passenger safety in Harlow.

All drivers will have to display the lights as well as door signage to help users identify the vehicle as legitimate.

The roof light will display the message 'pre-booked journeys only' and door panels will state 'Licensed by Harlow Council for private hire use for pre-booked journeys only'.

The council's environment and community committee agreed the move last week. Chairman Eddie Johnson said: "Introducing new door signage and roof lights on all private hire vehicles will improve vehicle identification, which is good thing for local people and the trade."

"Although there have been very few incidents of unlicensed vehicles in the town, there is a danger that people may pose as private hire vehicles and this action will help discourage this."

"People will be safe in the knowledge that they are getting into a properly licensed vehicle."

The measure comes after years of lobbying by the private hire trade to improve the identification of their vehicles in Harlow after concerns were raised about unlicensed drivers operating in the area.

Following two years of consideration from the Private Hire Consultative Body, a recommendation was made to the council that roof lights and side panels should be adopted.

The decision was taken in February last year and councillors finally agreed its implementation last week.

It is expected cabs will be fitted with the lights and extra door signs from August 1.

Dog traps owner in bedroom

A WOMAN had to be rescued after barricading herself in her bedroom when she was attacked by her pet dog.

Crews were called to The Readings, Harlow, at about 4.30pm on Thursday after receiving reports the animal had turned on its owner.

They arrived to find the woman had shut herself in a bedroom to get away from the animal. Firefighters rescued her from the upstairs window using a ladder.

She was treated for a bite and taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital. It is understood the dog was destroyed by RSPCA officers.

Sporting gesture a winner for hospice

CHARITY fundraisers were quids in when sporting stars converged on Harlow Stadium to help raise cash for St Clare Hospice.

Cricketer Mark Wallace was among the celebrities who joined members of the public for a darts and a card tournament at the dog track last Wednesday.

The bash, which also included a raffle, raised more than £2,000 for the hospice at Hastingwood.

The evening was organised by The Gatekeeper restaurant in London Road, Harlow. Manager Sharon Jenkins said: "We were delighted with the turnout. It was really busy and everyone seemed to really enjoy themselves."

"We are still waiting for a few final donations to come in but the total seems to be around £2,100. This is even more than we had hoped for and are extremely grateful to all those who came along."

"St Clare Hospice is a most worthy cause and it's great to see such support in difficult times. It is a charity close to all our hearts locally and will make a real difference."

Mum's fear after yob's 'gun' threat

FRIGHTENED: Julie Clarke, pictured with daughter Hollie (7), son Glenn (16) and Glenn's girlfriend Lauren Hopkins

CONCERNS have been raised about the safety of residents plagued by anti-social behaviour after one woman was threatened with an imitation gun.

Yobs are said to be causing trouble at Prentice Place, in Potter Street, defecating and starting fires in stairwells, spraying abusive graffiti on walls and even daubing cars with paint.

The trouble came to a head earlier this month when mum-of-three Julie Clarke was threatened with what she thought was a gun as she left her flat.

Police were called and two young suspects were detained. They were found to be in possession of ball bearing guns and taken home to their parents where they were given a warning.

Now Mrs Clarke said she does not feel safe and has been so upset by the problems in the area that she is taking anti-depressants and is seeing a counsellor.

"I have a seven-year-old daughter and she is afraid about everything that has been going on," Mrs Clarke told the Star. "I just don't know what to do."

She has applied for a council house but claims she is being hampered because the council wants to move her to another flat.

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertssexnews.co.uk

Prentice Place is being used for temporary accommodation until it is demolished as part of a massive regeneration project.

Ward councillor Mark Wilkinson, who is helping Mrs Clarke in her quest to find somewhere else to live, said the area suffers from a number of problems.

"I am concerned for the welfare of all the residents there," he said. "I think she [Mrs Clarke] should be put in a house and I am pressing the council over this."

A council spokesman said the authority was working with police to tackle anti-social behaviour in the area and said residents were being kept informed on the progress being made.

Regarding Mrs Clarke's attempt to seek alternative accommodation, he said the council was unable to discuss individual cases but added some residents who have been living in temporary accommodation for more than a short period were advised they had a better chance of successfully bidding for properties if they chose flats because of the shortage of houses.

Stone fish heading for Town Park pool in Hotspots revamp

AN sculpture depicting a shoal of fish is to be installed at Harlow Town Park's paddling pool this summer.

The sculpture will replace the vandalised work by Hilary Frew called Two Children On A Rock.

Residents voted last year for the pool to be spruced up in Harlow Renaissance's annual Hotspots competition which is supported by the Star.

Financial assistance has been provided by Essex County Council while West Sussex artist Will Spankie has been commissioned to create the sculpture.

His winning design will be a stone carving made from Kilkenny limestone, about 70cm across, depicting a shoal of small fish swimming around the circular stone.

The fish designs will be produced following a creative workshop with a local school.

Woman with young child in buggy robs frail OAP (84)

A YOUNG woman pushing a child in a buggy snatched a handbag from a frail pensioner.

The woman approached the 84-year-old victim who was in a motorised scooter travelling along Brays Mead, Harlow, at about 1pm last Wednesday.

She stopped the elderly woman to ask if she wanted assistance but the pensioner politely refused. The woman then grabbed the handbag, which contained cash and cards, before making off.

Investigating officer PC Emma Hinkins said: "It is a sad indictment on society today when a young mother stoops to such levels as to steal a handbag from the infirm."

"We are not sure what was going through her mind at the time but we do know this woman needs to be arrested and the handbag returned."

The woman is described as white, about 1.52m (5ft) tall, in her late 20s with straight dark hair and crooked teeth.

"This very distinctive description should register with a friend or relative and we would urge them to do the right thing," said PC Hinkins. Anyone with information is asked to call police on 0300 333 4444.

Police arrest four in car crime crackdown

Council staff to bolster thin blue line

COUNCIL officers are to be handed new powers which will allow them to issue fines for offences including riding bikes on footpaths.

Harlow Council has been granted authority to allow staff to train for an Essex Police Community Safety Accreditation which will see employees such as street wardens, park rangers and security staff given authority to deal with incidents such as anti-social behaviour, disorder and nuisance.

Under the measures they will be able to hand out fines to under-18s trying to buy alcohol in licensed premises, for wasting police time or giving a false statement, riding bikes on footpaths and for behaviour likely to cause alarm or distress.

They will also be able to confiscate alcohol and tobacco products from youngsters.

Currently only council community safety enforcement officers have the power to issue fines and only for offences such as anti-social behaviour, littering and dog fouling.

The council is the first organisation in Harlow to receive the award. The first group of staff will receive training next month.

FOUR people have been arrested in Harlow as part of a major police crackdown on travelling criminals.

The week-long operation across the whole western division of Essex Police targeted crooks by using automatic number plate recognition technology to scan vehicle number plates.

It allows officers to determine within a few seconds whether a car is stolen or has been used in a criminal offence.

In Harlow police stopped a total of 52 people at petrol stations throughout the town. One was arrested on suspicion of theft, two for possession of cannabis and another for public order offences.

Four vehicles were also seized after the drivers were found to have no insurance.

A police spokeswoman said: "Criminals use vehicles to carry out many crimes. They will identify a car they want to steal, gain entry to the owner's home, take the keys and drive away with it."

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor

sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"The car may be stolen for its own worth or used to commit other crimes, but in either case it needs fuel and its occupants need food and drink. Petrol stations can provide both and as it visits the watering hole, police can intercept it."

District commander Chief Inspector Nick Morris added: "We know that criminals use vehicles to commit crime. We are harnessing modern technology to basic police work to intercept them on their way to commit crime or on their return journey."

"We are grasping the initiative to drive down crime and increase arrests as they will not know where and when we are operating."

Everywhere you looked were pink flashing bunny ears...it was just fantastic!

TRACY MEALE

As events fundraiser for St Clare Hospice, Tracy Meale is heavily involved in the planning and preparations of the Midnight Walk, which takes place on Saturday, June 20. This week she recalls the fun she had taking part in last year's event . . . and talks about the buzz she is getting by helping to organise this year's event.

This time last year I was living in Harlow and commuting daily to my fundraising job for a national charity in the City.

I'm ashamed to admit it but, like many others in Harlow, I didn't realise there was a hospice on our doorstep.

But one weekend I was shopping in Asda when I saw a big pink stand advertising the Midnight Walk. I love pink and was trying to lose some weight at the time so I took a leaflet and asked my friends if they were interested in a girly night out (with a bit of exercise on the side) . . . dressed up in pink, of course!

We bought some pink angel costumes and got ready at my flat with my fabulously artistic friend Rachael decorating us with pink face paint. As we walked through town, we felt a bit self-conscious in our outfits but as soon as we walked into the Water Gardens, what a sight!

Everywhere you looked were pink flashing bunny ears and people who had turned up to support the hospice. It was just fantastic. We got our T-shirts and bought some glowsticks, took part in the warm-up then off we went, walking through town. The atmosphere was just so great, people were chatting with others and it was lovely hearing all the different reasons for people taking part. I even saw a hen party, men dressed as women and a couple of birthday celebrations! The end of the walk was tiring but walking back along the roads to the Water Gardens people were beeping their car horns to give us some encouragement and it was such a great lift for us.

If I wasn't organising the event this year, I'd definitely be walking it!

Taking part in the walk last year I was overwhelmed at how huge an event it was.

So much preparation and organisation has to go into organising the walk and we rely heavily on volunteers giving their time to help, as well as companies offering us people to help with marshalling or giving their own services free of charge.

It really is fantastic seeing the generosity of the local community offering to help us. The number of people who are calling us at the moment saying "I've just registered me, my mum, my sisters and my daughters in the event" or "I've got a team of 15 people from work ready to sign up" makes it very exciting being part of a successful event.

At the moment I'm working on the marketing of the event to make sure that as many people as possible know it is taking part.

I'm talking to local companies to see if they can display our marketing stands to either their staff or customers, our volunteers are taking posters and leaflets to their local shops and schools and we're all busy responding to queries from supporters asking for more information and registration forms.

It has been really positive; we've got nearly double the amount of entries that we had at this point in time last year.

Ten per cent of these walkers have even set up online sponsor forms so it's fantastic to see that so many people are not only wanting to do the walk but also raise some extra money to support the hospice.

FACTfile

WHO All our patients have a life-limiting illness which may include cancer or another disease affecting their heart, lungs, kidneys, liver or brain. We care for patients aged 18 and over, regardless of beliefs, ethnicity or gender. Our patients live in West Essex and the neighbouring East Hertfordshire border. Importantly, our care also supports family and friends of any age and is provided free of charge.

WHY Just because you have a life-limiting illness doesn't mean you can't live life. It is important you have the choice to receive high quality care and support, help to maintain your dignity and independence. It is important your family and friends have someone to talk to for advice, information and support.

HOW Day therapy. Provides an opportunity for us to support you in many ways. We offer creative activities such as arts and crafts, painting and gardening, all of which are designed with you in mind, supporting your independence. Many people enjoy a massage or an aromatherapy session.

Out-patient appointments. Provided with many members of our team such as doctors, nurses and therapists. Group sessions are also available to support you with specific problems such as breathlessness, fatigue and anxiety. You may just like to come and talk to other people with similar illnesses and enjoy some time out.

Advice/information. Living with a life-limiting illness raises all kinds of questions and issues. Our team can help give advice and information on a wide range of topics such as completing forms & providing benefit advice, to discussing your medication. Our 24-hour advice line on (01279) 773773 is designed to support you, your family and our healthcare colleagues at any time.

In-patient care. We have eight bedrooms, each looking out on to beautiful grounds. You don't have to stay indoors as each room has its own patio area where you can sit for a breath of fresh air. In the rooms you will find everything you expect of a hotel suite - TV, stereo, comfortable bed and en-suite bathroom. You may come to stay in our in-patient unit to help get your symptoms under control or for a full assessment of all your needs. You may only need to stay for a few days before going home again. Some patients choose to spend their last days with us because they know the care they will receive is outstanding. They will live whatever time they have to the full with dignity.

Bereavement counselling. It is often very comforting for a patient to know that their family and friends will be cared for after they die. If you've been bereaved we are here to listen and talk, whenever you're ready. We provide specialist support for children and young people too.

Supporting family and friends. Caring for someone can be exhausting and we are here to help you. It may be you need a listening ear or someone to answer questions you may have. It might be you need something like a wheelchair or special mattress. Our equipment loan service can provide items quickly and free of charge. We tailor our support and care to your individual and family needs.

WHAT NEXT? If you would like to find out more about how our care could help you, call our main reception on (01279) 773 700 (9am-5pm) or our 24-hour advice line or visit our website at www.stclare-hospice.co.uk

Last year's response to the Midnight Walk was fantastic but we're really hoping that this year is going to be bigger and better.

We would like to see 2,000 walkers take part to help raise £120,000 for the hospice. We're also looking to have more entertainment on the night so that everyone has a fun time before they set off.

And yes, ladies, the firefighters are going to be back!

There are so many reasons why people should take part, whether it's to remember a loved one who has been helped by the hospice, to have a fun night out with your friends and family . . . or even to do some exercise before the bikini season calls!

WIN Year's free parking in Harlow town centre

PARKING is a contentious issue in Harlow these days.

Anyone reading the Star over the past few weeks can hardly have failed to notice the furore that has greeted Harlow Council's decision to introduce parking charges at some of the town's neighbourhood shopping centres and increase charges at a number of others.

But that will not matter for one lucky reader. For we have teamed up with NCP to give you the chance to win a year's season ticket for the Terminus Street multi-storey car park in Harlow town centre. This great prize is worth more than $500.

The NCP Terminus Street car park is a well-established multi-storey conveniently located next to the bus station in the centre of town, with competitive charges attractive to both shoppers and commuters.

NCP recently completed a lighting upgrade and the redecoration of four stairwells at the car park.

Parking charges are currently £1.50 for up to two hours, £3 for up to four hours and £3.50 for an all-day stay. And you can save both time and money by purchasing a season ticket. For details contact regional sales manager Tiffany

Angel-Jones on 07801 916390 or email tiffany.angel-jones@ncp.co.uk

All you have to do to stand a chance of winning a season ticket is answer the simple question in the coupon on the right and follow the entry instructions.

Alternatively, you can enter via our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk by clicking on 'Competitions' in the Lifestyle section. Under competition name enter 'Harlow Star/NCP Car Park'.

Sea monster with a bite that could crush a car

A GIANT sea monster, the fossilised remains of which have recently been discovered in the Arctic, had such a ferocious bite it could have crushed a large car in its jaws, according to scientists.

The beast, nicknamed Predator X, is believed to have hunted prey in the world's oceans about 147 million years ago. Its jaws were even more powerful than those of a fearsome Tyrannosaurus Rex.

Experts in the study of fossils – who are called palaeontologists – discovered part of the creature's skull last summer and have been carrying out detailed research on the remains ever since.

The creature is thought to belong to an undiscovered species of plesiosaur, a group of huge, short-necked reptiles with razor-sharp teeth.

Plesiosaurs lived at the time of some of the more familiar land-dwelling dinosaurs that you may have heard of, but even by their standards this new sea monster's enormous size has amazed scientists.

They have estimated its length to have been around 15 metres – the same size as one and a half buses – making it much bigger than another large plesiosaur nicknamed The Monster uncovered in the same region of the Arctic two years ago.

The perfect Queens for a wild night

STEWARDS: Students brought the house down as they rocked their way through a back catalogue of hits by Queen at the school's sell-out Schools Will Rock You concert staged by more than 60 pupils from Years 8-11. Drama head and co-director Di Johnson said: "It has been our most ambitious and successful production ever. The work that has been put in by staff and pupils is phenomenal, and several months of hard work has paid off with a production which the cast, crew and audiences will never forget."

Honoured guests open new theatre

ST NICHOLAS PRIMARY:

Children are polishing their dancing shoes and practising their jazz hands with the opening of a new 200-seat theatre in their school.

Lady Moira Swire, for whom the theatre is named and whose family helped with its funding, did the honour of cutting the ribbon at the opening ceremony, after which junior and senior pupils took to the stage to provide entertainment.

Children are off in search of space

KINGSMOOR PRIMARY: The sky was the limit when a huge blow up planetarium arrived at the school hall as part of science week studies.

The dome encouraged children to point out the constellations which can be seen in the night sky as well as to find out about the different planets in a projected sideshow.

The week also included visits to a solar power company.

Science co-ordinator Fiona Hobson said: "The children were blown away with the planetarium; they were absolutely amazed. We have had some fantastic feedback and the kids have really enjoyed it."

Ding-dong! Avon calling with advice

HARLOW COLLEGE: Beauty students were given pearls of wisdom when they were visited by south-east England's first ever Avon lady.

Eve Taylor OBE was invited to speak to undergraduates as well as give demonstrations using her own brand of aromatherapy which she launched 40 years ago.

Ms Taylor's is now the number one professional aromatherapy brand in the world.

Principal beauty lecturer Ruth Anodin said: "Eve Taylor is an inspiration and her expansive knowledge and engaging delivery will be of real benefit to our students."

Playing games of all nations

PURFORD GREEN: Pupils embraced their cultural side when they learned how other children from around the world keep themselves amused.

Interactive group Small Earth Games involved all year groups as they taught the children to have fun with different playground games, including French skipping which got the youngsters into a bit of a tangle!

Headteacher Vivian Perri said: "All the children were incredibly enthusiastic about the whole event."

MP calls for rent increase rethink

HARLOW MP Bill Rammell has urged the town's councillors to ease the burden on tenants during the current recession by reducing a planned rent hike.

Harlow Council is planning to increase rents by an average of 7.4 per cent in the next financial year, but Mr Rammell is worried that many cash-strapped households will struggle to meet the extra cost.

Pointing to new Government guidelines suggesting average rent increases should be halved from 6.2 per cent to 3.1 per cent, he claimed it was vital the council followed suit and used an increased subsidy from Whitehall to offset the drop in revenue.

"With almost 7,000 people on Harlow Council's waiting list, we need to be thinking creatively about how we provide affordable housing in the town but also how to ease the burden for residents," he said.

"It is vital that agencies pull together during these difficult economic times to help people who might have difficulty paying their bills."

The planned rent increases for 2009/10 were calculated by council officers in September last year when inflation was higher than the current rate of just three per cent.

Council leader Andrew Johnson told the Star the authority would be "delighted" to reduce the level of increase but said it was awaiting more details on how the subsidised scheme would work.

"I am pleased that Mr Rammell is pledging his support for Harlow to receive the money and assume he is indicating a guarantee," said Mr Johnson.

"Harlow Council will be making its best efforts to secure this for our tenants. Any money which the Government let us have for this purpose we will be glad to pass on to our tenants as soon as we receive it."

Working conditions improve at hospital

WORKING conditions at Princess Alexandra Hospital are getting better, according to a survey carried out by the Healthcare Commission.

The Government watchdog found more than 40 per cent of staff felt there had been significant improvements across the board, particularly in relation to training opportunities and employee communication.

Workers were particularly satisfied with the Trust's above-average provision of equal opportunities for career progression, and 79 per cent said they had received job-relevant training, learning or development in the past year – an increase of eight per cent on 2007's survey results.

But although the Trust did not perform worse in any area compared to last year, the report makes it clear there is still room for improvement – especially in terms of the availability of health and safety training and the number of staff experiencing harassment, bullying or abuse from patients and their relatives.

Alan Farmer, executive director of Workforce, the Trust's human resources department, said he was generally pleased with the survey's findings.

"I am pleased to see a marked improvement in our results," he said. "We have performed significantly better in nearly a quarter of the questions compared to last year."

"It is important we don't become complacent and address the areas of continuing under-performance and where we have scored averagely."

Crew sharing some crucial life lessons

SCORES of children learnt the importance of sensible life choices at a hands-on workshop.

Every Year 6 pupil in Harlow was at the Latton Bush Centre last week for the Harlow Safer Partnership's Crucial Crew event, intended to provide a broad knowledge of personal safety issues to help youngsters cope with life.

The day included roleplay, in which they had to make tough decisions about alcohol, drugs, stranger danger, bullying and personal safety.

INTERIORS WITH FISHPOOLS

A WORLD OF FURNISHING IDEAS

If you invest in only one item of furniture this year you must make it a gorgeous console unit. Cabinets and consoles are unbeatable for pure practicality but in the past few months they've had a style overhaul. Now they are not only useful but beautiful too.

Cabinets & Consoles...

A gorgeous console or chest of drawers is a godsend for cluttered rooms. It provides somewhere to hide all those little bits that don't really have a place anywhere else - the posh cutlery, the yellow pages, the Christmas china, in fact the possibilities are endless.

Best of all there's no boundaries as to which rooms you can use them in. From hallways to bathrooms, any room can house a chic sideboard provided you have the space.

To get the most out of your console unit choose one with staying power - that is one in a colour that can take you through lots of decorating possibilities. If you're a fan of light paint on the walls then a stunning walnut colour will do the trick or other classic colours include black and cream.

Of course there are lots of possibilities when it comes to choosing for your home, if it's a console for a sitting room you might want to consider a unit which is half glass. This way you can display any ornaments that you have whilst keeping space to hide away any items you want out of sight like remote controls and DVD's.

The stunning Moreno collection of wall units from Fishpool's is the ultimate in versatility. The units can be floor standing or mounted on the wall to create an interesting display. Team with a crisp white sofa for a modern room that is as practical as it is stylish.

If you're looking for something to go with a bright colourful room then wood is the way to go. Again from Fishpool's the Pur wall units are really flexible as you can design a combination to suit your needs.

Because the design is stunning yet simple these units will go with any décor. For an ultra modern effect layer the units at different heights and add sculptural shaped accessories to the shelves.

For lots more inspiration head to Fishpools to view the full collection of stunning furniture on offer.

Home sweet Home in MHP's enjoyable play

REVIEW

Moot House Players
Moot House, The Stow, Harlow

MOOT House Players revisited a modern classic in this enjoyable performance of David Storey's critically acclaimed Home.

The play, first presented by the group in 1974, at first seems to be about two elderly men putting the world to rights and reminiscing about the past – but it becomes apparent all is not as it seems.

The dynamic of the play shifts when two deluded women appear on the scene and it soon begins to click that this seemingly straightforward drama is in fact a subtle portrayal of life in a psychiatric hospital.

The intimate setting of only two chairs and a table provided the perfect backdrop and the use of few props allowed the captivated audience to focus entirely on the performers.

The actors made good use of the stage, using every nook and cranny to ensure no part of the audience was excluded.

Flirtatious Kathleen (Joan Lanario) produced the most laughs as she continuously flashed her knickers in a bid to add to her ever-growing list of conquests.

Alfred (Dan Powell), meanwhile, who fought aggressively with tables and chairs, garnered numerous belly laughs for his brilliant portrayal of a nervous and confused would-be wrestler.

The play ended on a rather sad note and I left the theatre feeling sorry and saddened for the circumstances in which the characters came to be in the hospital, but in no doubt that Moot House Players are so much more than your average amateur theatre group.

Anthology showcases writers' best

ASPIRING authors invited readers to lose themselves in a new dimension at the launch of their latest anthology.

Worlds Within Words is the 10th collection of short stories and poems by the Harlow Writers' Workshop and features a wealth of twisting tales, punchy prose and emotive poetry.

Guests attending a special recital at the Gibberd Gallery on Saturday were treated to readings from some of those featured in the book, which has been launched as part of the Essex Book Festival. Workshop chairwoman Adrienne Tinn said: "As a small writing group we are proud to have been chosen to be part of the Essex Book Festival this year. "We also appreciate all the kind support we've received in helping to produce and promote our new anthology."

Harlow MP Bill Rammell added: "Groups like Harlow Writers' Workshop give local residents an opportunity to express their artistic talents while meeting new people and gaining feedback on their work. It is brilliant to see the group have their work published."

Worlds Within Words is available priced £4 from local libraries, the Epping Book Shop or online through Amazon.co.uk.

Pictured are Rose Chitseko, Julie Monahan-Madell, Adrienne Tinn, Alan Blunden, Hazel Taylor, John Allen, Rose Gotley, Keith Silver, Rosemary Porter, Jenny Wright, Anne Neuhaus and Cliff Howes.

Midge still has his magic intact

THE pencil-thin sideburns have gone and, as he freely admits, so have most of his hair follicles, but Midge proved to a busy Playhouse that he hasn't lost the magic touch which made him one the most popular singers and songwriters of the 1980s.

The Scottish star confessed to the crowd that his voice might give way as he had that day been rehearsing with the recently reformed Ultravox, ahead of their nationwide tour next month. But his voice didn't waver as he delivered a powerful solo acoustic set consisting of solo work such as If I Was, covers including David Bowie's Lady Stardust and The Walker Brothers' No Regrets, along with a very good selection of old Ultravox hits.

It's strange to hear electronic classics such as Vienna, Hymn,

Dancing With Tears In My Eyes, and Visage's Fade To Grey (which he also wrote) performed on a guitar and without the tiniest bleep or click of a synthesizer, but it makes you realise that ultimately they're just good songs that would still be fairly impressive if played on a washboard.

It was an extremely enjoyable concert in itself, but also a perfect taster for those of us lucky enough to have a ticket to see Ultravox next month.

Capsule is a Pandora's Box of dire predictions

KNOWING

ALEX Proyas, director of Dark City and The Crow, delivers a chilling tale of global disaster in which one unsuspecting man finds himself charged with saving mankind from oblivion.

Fifty years after a group of elementary school children drew pictures and buried their artwork in a time capsule, a new generation of curious tykes opens the container. Inside, young Caleb Koestler (Chandler Canterbury) discovers a sheet of paper written by a little girl, which at first glance seems to be lines of random numbers.

But when his father, Professor John Koestler (Nicolas Cage), begins to unravel this number series, he discovers that contained within the sheet of paper are the precise dates, death tolls and geographical co-ordinates of every major catastrophe to befall mankind.

More worrying, there are three more sets of numbers on the page pointing to imminent catastrophes on an unprecedented scale, all somehow involving John and Caleb.

As he races against time to avert carnage, John meets Diana Wayland (Rose Byrne) and her daughter Abby (Lara Robinson), descendants of the girl who wrote the original number sequence who may hold the key to unlocking its secrets.

The casual viewer might find Cage's presence at the top of the cast list more of a warning than an enticement, given the long run of turkeys he's headlined in recent years from World Trade Center, the execrable remake of The Wicker Man, Ghost Rider and National Treasure 2: Book of Secrets to the pointless remake of Bangkok Dangerous.

But the film's received warm praise from critics receptive to the credibly dark and paranoid tone given the material by Proyas, as well as for its intelligent writing.

certificate 12a, running time 2h5m

JULIA Roberts and Clive Owen reunite in the highly anticipated new film from writer/director Tony Gilroy, set in the high stakes arena of corporate espionage.

Words are meaningless in this comic caper because everyone is bluffing to some extent, concealing true intentions behind a compliment or seemingly genuine smile.

We don't know who to trust – if anyone – as the intricate plot unfolds, right up to the final frame when the myriad knots untangle and the winners and losers in the elaborate scam discover their fate.

In a world where every identity could be an elaborate illusion and every declaration of love a bare-faced lie, who do you trust?

Gilroy gleefully pulls the rug from under us at the same time as the characters, relishing each hairpin twist and turn.

The chronologically fractured structure helps to conceal some of these sleights of hand, at the expense of dramatic momentum.

The fog does lift in closing scenes but by then, some members of the audience may be a tad exhausted, performing mental gymnastics without any obvious payoff.

CIA officer Claire Stenwick (Roberts) and MI6 agent Ray Koval (Owen) leave behind government intelligence to seek an easier and far more profitable future by employing their expertise in the cutthroat world of big business.

Working for rival multinationals, they find themselves chasing the same proof of a product that, once patented, could make either company market leaders and a small fortune.

In order to stay one step ahead of the competition, Claire and Ray double and triple-cross, using every trick in the book (and inventing a few new ones) to ensure they get the relevant documents first.

However, the former spies soon realise that all of their training cannot immunise them to mutual attraction, which frequently leads to the bedroom.

ZACK AND MIRI MAKE A PORN

(Entertainment In Video, 18, retail & rental)

Zack (Seth Rogan) and Miri (Elizabeth Banks) are old schoolfriends stuck in McJobs, facing eviction from the apartment they share and watching their basic utilities cut off one by one.

Desperation looms when inspiration strikes Zack that the fastest way to turn a buck and stave off their fiscal woes is to make and distribute their own blue movie.

Dragging in favours and hastily throwing together a cast to star alongside them, they get ready to roll, safe in the knowledge that a quicky for the cameras will in no way affect their years-long platonic friendship ...

Director/writer Kevin Smith delivers his most accomplished and satisfying movie in a while, blending the scatological humour of Clerks and a refreshingly blunt approach to sex with the unexpectedly sweet wistfulness of Chasing Amy.

His guffaw-out-loud script is safe in the hands of his two hugely likeable and accomplished leads, with Rogan and Banks giving perfectly timed and nuanced performances.

Along for the ride are View Askew regulars Jeff Anderson (Randal in Clerks) and Jason Mewes (Jay, in just about every Smith movie), plus spirited performances from crossover porn starlets Traci Lords and Katie Morgan.

Extras include a making of that's almost as funny as the feature itself plus interviews.

Star rating: ★★★★★

QUANTUM OF SOLACE

(MGM/20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 15, retail & rental)

Daniel Craig's second outing as national treasure James Bond almost literally picks up where Casino Royale left off, hurling the viewing into the midst of a white-knuckle car chase.

Seeking revenge on the murderers of the woman he loved (even though she betrayed him), 007 bludgeons his way to the heart of the international criminal organisation Quantum, a multi-tentacled outfit with a vast global reach which specialises in bankrolling terrorists, overthrowing legitimate governments, that kind of thing.

Going rogue from MI6 but with the help of gorgeous villain's plaything Camille (Olga Kurylenko), Bond discovers there's something far more precious than oil in the sights of master crook Dominic Greene (the appropriately sardonic Mathieu Amalric).

The rebooted franchise sticks close to the formula of the first film with a blend of messy, bone-crunching violence and crash-edited adrenalinised action sequences, but if anything it sometimes veers a little too close to the kinetic pace and grit of the Bourne trilogy which clearly inspired it and risks leaving behind all the hallmarks of a Bond movie.

That said, Craig has settled into the part just fine and the environmental concerns are well integrated into the story rather than glibly tacked on in a villain's 11th hour monologue.

Star rating: ★★★

AN EMPRESS & THE WARRIORS

(Cine-Asia/Showbox, 15, retail)

Coming from Tony Siu-Tung Ching, action choreographer of Hero and House Of Flying Daggers, this epic of Chinese feudal warfare and internecine plotting is every bit as visually ravishing as you'd expect.

When the emperor of Yan dies fighting off an invasion, his daughter Fei (Kelly Chen) takes the throne but the subterfuge of her ambitious cousin leaves her poisoned and hiding out in a remote forest, slowly coming to love the doctor who saved her life even as her kingdom teeters on the brink of civil war and duty beckons her back to the battlefield.

The politics of the piece are done well enough but it's in marshalling the grand battle sequences and the clash of beautifully armoured troops amid slow-motion bursts of blood and rain that the film really comes into its own.

The disc also features a making-of mini documentary.

Star rating: ★★★

KING BOXER

(Momentum Pictures, 18, retail)

Made by Shaw Brothers in 1972, King Boxer (aka Five Fingers Of Death) is the film that pretty much single-handedly kick-started the Western craze for kung fu movies.

It's a testament to the film that it remains as powerful and exciting more than 35 years later, with a wonderfully intense central performance from Lieh Lo as young Chao who, to keep a rival martial arts school in its place and avenge an insult to his own, heads off to learn the fabled and lethal Iron Palm technique before entering an important national tournament.

There's a lot of melodramatic to-ing and fro-ing, but not enough to get in the way of the various murderous shenanigans Chao's rivals put in his way and the dazzling displays of technique shown in the film's various fight sequences.

Extras include an audio commentary featuring Quentin Tarantino, an interview with King Boxer's Korean-born director Chang-Hwa Jeong, stills and trailers.

THE 36TH CHAMBER OF SHAOLIN

(Momentum Pictures, 18, retail)

Hailing from 1978 and wildly popular in its day, Shaw Brother's The 36th Chamber Of Shaolin has arguable aged less well.

Far more procedural than King Boxer in intent, it follows a young man forced to leave his home by Manchu invaders and seeking the wisdom of the far-off Shaolin Temple, the birthplace of kung fu.

Much of the film is a chronicle of his learning as he works his way stolidly through the pain and privations of the first 35 disciplines of martial arts until reaching mastery of the form and advising the abbot to create a new, 36th chamber to train the common people and allow them to fight back against their oppressors.

Extras include a commentary featuring Wu-Tang Clan's The RZA, several interviews, a concert video for Wu-Tang Clan's Gravel Pit, stills and trailers.

Small in size but big in value

By MATT JOY

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IF you had decided that a small car was the thing to have, there was a time when you had very little choice.

Small, cheap and with three doors more often than not, that was your lot. Now, of course, every conceivable niche is explored by dozens of manufacturers.

The Qubo is Fiat's first foray into the mini-MPV sector, which has seen a steady increase in popularity over the years as buyers have become keen on the idea of having something small on the outside but practical and spacious on the inside.

In keeping with Fiat's value angle on things, the Qubo is a mix of Grande Punto and van, but at this end of the price structure that's certainly no bad thing. The mixed origins helps to keep the cost down and when you're buying something small it needs a price tag to match.

To say the Qubo is an unusual looking car is an understatement, but that doesn't mean it is lacking in charm. The gaping front end has a cheery honesty to it, the sliding doors and rising window

FIRST DRIVE: Fiat Qubo

MODEL 1.3 M-Jet Dynamic

PRICE £12,350 on the road

CO₂ EMISSIONS 119g/km

PERFORMANCE Top speed 97mph, 0-62mph in 16.5 seconds

FUEL CONSUMPTION 62.8mpg (combined)

ENGINE 1.3-litre four cylinder diesel engine delivering 75bhp TRANSMISSION 5-speed manual gearbox driving front wheels line are smart, while the rear is neat and attractive.

Inside there's even more to be pleased about. For a start, getting in has never been easier. For those in the front seats, the high roofline means you barely have to duck in order to slide into the high-mounted seats.

Those in the back can dive in through the sliding rear doors, a legacy of the van-based status of course, but given that they appear on expensive full-size people carriers too, they are extremely useful and pay dividends when unloading kids in a multi-storey car park.

Space is also something there's no shortage of. In the front, headroom is simply not an issue thanks to the high roofline and steep windscreen. Even the tallest of men with a taste for expansive headgear will find more than enough room and there's decent elbow room to go with it.

In the rear, there's sufficient space for tall people to get comfortable too, with a good view out thanks to the rear seats being mounted slightly higher than those in the front.

Due to the width, three full-size adults across the rear seat might be a bit of a squeeze but it's not impossible and there are few cars with these external dimensions that could claim that.

As you would expect, the cabin is designed to be as practical and spacious as possible. There is a smattering of storage areas throughout, but it's the amount of space on offer that's really impressive. With the seats occupied and up to the top of the parcel shelf there's 330 litres of space.

Remove the parcel shelf and you have 650 litres, only slightly less than a large estate, and with the seats folded you have a mammoth 2,500 litres to play with. If that's not enough, it's time to call in a removal firm.

Slide behind the wheel and you're greeted by the vaguely familiar layout which is largely inherited from the Grande Punto. That means it is simple but attractive, with a chunky steering wheel, handsome dials and simple rotary controls for the heating and ventilation.

The high-mounted gear lever is also a benefit, and the driving position is upright but comfortable. Thanks to the huge glass area, visibility is very good, and piloting the Qubo is a largely stress-free experience.

The steering is light and accurate, and the Qubo responds well to your demands. Under the bonnet there's a choice of a 1.4-litre petrol delivering 73bhp and the 1.3-litre Multijet diesel providing 75bhp, though with considerably more torque to back it up. That said, the Qubo is no fireball even in diesel form. You need to make an effort with the revs and the gear lever to make decent progress, but thanks to the decent refinement your ears won't get a bashing as a result.

There's a lot to like about the Qubo, especially when you bring the subject of prices into it. The entry-level 1.4 Dynamic checks in at a modest £9,750, but even the top dog 1.3 M-Jet Dynamic is only £12,350.

It's worth plumping for the diesel, but all models come with a decent level of kit including hands-free Bluetooth and a USB connector, which, as well as allowing an MP3 player to be connected, also lets you use Fiat's Eco:Drive system designed to help you monitor your economy and emissions via some clever software and a USB stick.

The Qubo is not on its own in this sector, but it does score highly on practicality and value. And that's more than enough to satisfy the needs of a whole host of keen buyers.

Wintry cars give a personal service - second to none!

Dagenham Motors are MASSIVELY overstocked. As a result, the managers have reduced the price of all their cars in stock.

Normally these cars would go to auction where other small car dealers would pick these cars up then sell them on to you with a large mark-up.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Despite the much vaunted "downturn" in the economy, Neon, who supply Kyocera copiers together with Smart interactive whiteboards, are experiencing the best period of growth in their four year history.

Managing Director, Dan Stevens, says, "Through building an outstanding reputation for service and value within schools and colleges over the past three years, we have been able to maintain our growth in spite of the credit crunch."

One of the secrets to Neon's success has been an ability to recruit outstanding people and coach them in "The Neon Way," a unique sales process developed by Neon and their strategic training partner, Inspiru.

"Our idea was to create a Neon Sales Academy, which nurtured a simple, ethical and effective business model to genuinely differentiate Neon from our competitors and build a high degree of credibility and trust within our customers" enthused Dan.

"The idea was so successful that, despite the general economic gloom, we now need to build on our success and recruit a further group of salespeople to join the next Academy."

With a stated intention of growing from a successful local business to major player within the next few years, it would seem that career and earning opportunities at Neon Digital have never been better.

The Essex one day course was at Woodford.

Joh Stow, who helps with the quartet's coaching, said: "The athletes thoroughly enjoyed the day and they gained heck of a lot from it. He travels the world and helps the Kenyans."

Richards back with a flourish

Canvey Island 1, Harlow Tn 3

(Ryman Football League, premier division)

JAMIE Richards marked his return to Harlow Town with a goal as 10-man Hawks triumphed against Canvey Island.

Richards was re-signed on Friday from Thurrock after spending 34 days at the Blue Square South Club.

Saturday was a mixed day for Chris Ellerbeck, who scored one goal before being sent off for a second bookable offence (unsporting behaviour) on 85 minutes. He was booked earlier for retaliation on Tarkan Mustafa after the latter – who was also booked – fouled him.

Harlow started with a new central defensive pairing of Danny Wolf and Paul Kear, with Laurie Stewart pushed into midfield.

Jordan Fowler made his first appearance in midfield since December 9 after recovering from a thigh injury.

Harlow went ahead on 33 minutes. Richards chased a high ball from Frendo, before flicking it around the advancing home keeper Ricky Wiseman and curling it into the empty net.

On 63 minutes, Ellerbeck raced onto Frendo's high ball and rounded Wiseman before rolling the ball into the unguarded goal. Four minutes later, Tom Bruno struck a right-footed half volley into the top corner from 25 yards.

However, Canvey pulled a goal back in the 73rd minute. Leon Gordon headed home Leon Antoine's free kick after Michael Bardle handled the ball just outside the box.

Then Hawks defender Paul Kear deflected a Leon Antoine shot onto the Harlow post.

After Ellerbeck was sent off, Canvey's Richard Halle was booked for using his hand to push the ball over the Harlow line.

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Taylor, Bardle, Wolf, Kear, Bruno, Fowler (Berry, 81), Stewart, Richards (Webb, 89), Ellerbeck (sent off 85), Frendo. Subs not used: Okojie, S. Gliddon, Dauti. Att 310.

Maypole claim the cup

THE formbook was followed as Epping Athletic overcame Maypole Sports to win the cup. Epping are second in division three, while Sports are second from bottom.

Chris Muir broke the deadlock on 60 minutes when Tom Willis' perfect pass found him and he chipped over the advancing Mark Ramsey into the net.

Epping made it 2-0 against the run of play on 72 minutes.

Muir become provider beating his man and fired across the goal to find Ben Furlong who tapped home from six yards.

Maypole halved the deficit on 80 minutes as Mike Gosnell found himself with space 25 yards out and smashed the ball into the top of the net.

Epping Athletic: Chappell, Haigh, Wickham, Dower, Twitchett, Aldrich, Willis (Hilder 80), Eveleigh, Baker (Close 70), Muir, Furlong (Rogerson 70).

Maypole Sports: Ramsey, R Williams, Evans (McKeown 75), M Williams, Gosnell, Langran (Hammond 70), David Evans, Burr (Wood 70), Daniel Evans, Richardson, Walters.

Town defeated in heavy home loss to Ashford

FOOTBALL

Harlow Tn 2, Ashford Tn 5

(Ryman league, premier division)

A DISASTROUS performance from Harlow Town saw them slide to a heavy defeat at the hands of Ashford Town, writes David Rimmer.

The visitors went ahead after 33 minutes on Thursday.

Luke Pigden scooped the ball over the line before Harlow Town bounced back with two goals on 38 and 43 minutes.

Michael Bardle teed up Chris Ellerbeck to fire home from the edge of the box and Ellerbeck then scored a second after Dee Okojie's shot was blocked.

The Middlesex side equalised on 52 minutes. Ricky Wellard's free kick was played short to Anthony Joseph whose shot went in at the near post.

Byron Harrison put Ashford ahead when he poked home on 69 minutes after the Hawks failed at least twice to clear the ball. Visitors substitute Warren Harris then shot home twice at the far post from 75th and 78th minute free kicks to leave Harlow trailing 5-2.

Harlow went down to 10 as midfielder Tom Bruno needed treatment for a cut to his head. This happened just before they conceded the fifth goal, and until they let in an 85th minute penalty. The spot kick was awarded after Mark Taylor fouled Wellard in the box but James Hasell dived well to his right to keep Wellard's penalty out.

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Taylor, Bardle, Stevenson, Stewart, Bruno, Berry (Kear 76), Frendo, Okojie (Webb 68), Ellerbeck, Hall (Gliddon 27), Subs not used: Dauti, Walduck.

Home win sees return to third place

HARLOW moved back into third position in the Essex Premier division following a home victory over Havering seconds on Saturday.

The hosts went on the offensive from the start and were resisted until the 15th minute.

A good advantage from the umpire enabled Sonya Amos to slot home from close range after the Havering keeper was unable to turn the initial shot away from the danger area.

HOCKEY

Harlow 1, Havering II 0

(Essex Women's Hockey League, prem div)

It wasn't all one-way traffic and Anita Shearman and Jo Green made crucial interceptions to deny Havering.

Havering exerted strong pressure after the break. Home keeper Nicky Chesworth saved well before the loose ball fell to teammate Green to make an impressive goal line clearance.

Carolyn Rushton shot inches wide of the Havering post before Anna Ferdinando also came close for the hosts.

But the Harlow defence were in fine form and the hosts were able to deny Havering an equalising goal.

HARLOW: Chesworth, Shearman, Trimble, Green, Figg, Douglas, Rushton (capt), Reilly, Byers, Amos, Ferdinando, Price.

One win for the title

HARLOW Hawks will win their first ever Herts League division one title if they beat fellow contenders Luton Fliers tomorrow (Friday).

Hawks' home victory over basement side Aylesbury Dux left them three points clear of second-placed Luton, who have played two fewer matches than Harlow.

Dux dominated the start before Paul Jessop kept them in the game with the first 10 points for Hawks, the last of these a three-pointer to tie the game.

Hawks were 19-12 ahead at the end of the first quarter. Both teams had good spells in the second period before Hawks finished the quarter strongly with a pair of three-pointers each for Jessop and Mike Freeman and they led 41-25 at the halfway stage.

Harlow Hawks 93, Aylesbury Dux 54
(Herts County League, division one)

Hawks increased their defensive intensity and stopped Dux from scoring in the first five minutes of the third period.

The Harlow team were productive at the other end and led by 30 points (68-38) going into the last quarter.

Dux enjoyed a 7-2 run in the last quarter but it was too little too late and the final three minutes of the game saw Hawks up the pace to win by 39 points.

HAWKS: Jessop (28 pts), Niaz (15), Freeman (15), Allan (12), Jones (8), Haddow (6), Spashett (5), Collier (4), Burgess.

'We can win next games'

Dartford 1, Harlow Tn 1
(Ryman Football League, premier division)

MIDFIELDER Ryan Hall has left Harlow Town and right winger Dee Okojie is about to do so.

Hawks boss Glen Alzapiedi released Hall earlier this week and will let Okojie go after Harlow's home clash against basement side Heybridge Swifts this Saturday.

"Ryan was not performing to the levels required of a midfield player," said Alzapiedi, pictured right.

"Dee rang me up [Monday] and asked to leave Harlow. He will not play for me again.

"He will go before March 31 [transfer deadline], though. He would be good in a team which is near the top of the league."

Alzapiedi's side bounced back from their terrible defeat against Ashford last Thursday with a victory at Canvey on Saturday and draw at Dartford on Tuesday.

It has left Harlow in 17th spot on 41 points but too close to the drop zone for comfort.

Four sides are relegated from the 22-team league and four sides, including 19th-placed Harrow Borough, all have 41 points.

Alzapiedi feels his side can get nine points from the next three games against Heybridge, Billericay (away on Tuesday) and lowly Ramsgate (away in nine days).

"These games are all winnable," he said. "We have looked stronger and more competitive since the Ashford game."

At Dartford, Alzapiedi brought in central utility player Jon Stevenson into the midfield and rested Jordan Fowler.

The Hawks took the lead after 14 minutes. Chris Ellerbeck was fouled by Jamie Coyle and Mark Taylor bent a low free-kick around the wall and inside the bottom corner, just past the left glove of diving goalkeeper Andrew Young.

Harlow came agonisingly close to doubling their lead on 32 minutes. Young saved well from John Frendo and the ball bounced awkwardly for Richards, whose shot went into the ground and over the bar.

On 39 minutes, Hawks gave a way a soft goal when keeper James Hasell misjudged a Jamie Day free kick and substitute Jay May headed over Hasell and into the net.

Harlow had the better of the first half and Dartford slightly edged the second period.

On 73 minutes, Hasell made a fine sweeping save to keep out a Bradley Woods-Garness shot from point blank range.

Harlow came closest to hitting the target a second time, with Tom Bruno rattling the bar with on 76 minutes.

Alzapiedi added: "I thought we deserved to win. We had double the efforts on goal but it was good to get a point."

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Taylor (Fowler 88), Bardle, Wolf, Kear, Bruno, Stewart, Stevenson, Richards, Ellerbeck (S Gliddon, 82), Frendo (Crace, 61). Sub not used: Stone (GK). Att 828.
